Great post @_JesseMorton To be effective we must find commonalities, understanding, & breakdown stereotypes. Shaming, degrading, or speaking down to those needing help is counterproductive & serves to send them right back into extremism with renewed purpose.

Jesse Morton @_JesseMorton

Just FYI for interventionists, it's called unconditional positive regard, motivational interviewing & gauging harm to self or others... for those thinking #cve is about subjective definitions of deradicalization b4 disengagement, well, just keep ranting! Nevermind.

Jason, Glad to hear u state publicly that you are against racism & violence. Saving lives is paramount, as is peace building. I agree that peaceful activism is protected by the U.S. constitution & that must not be infringed.

Jeff Schoep @SchoepJeff · Oct 29Replying to @EXITUK1

My statement was a generalized broad brush not directed at anyone specifically. I do know of formers that are clearly on the far left, & I personally don't care, but If they want to be effective keep their extremism in check. Keep up the good work EXIT UK 🇬🇧!

Jeff Schoep @SchoepJeff · Oct 29Replying to @EXITUK1

There seems to be a lot of paranoia 4 people leaving the far right, & I get that 100%. I just believe we as peace activists need to tow the line & remain moderate or bipartisan so we can reach more ppl responsibly.
